5 Tips to Make English Studying a Habit

ESuRe, English Success Revolution
We Make You Speak!

5 Tips to Make English Studying a Habit

1. Get an accountability partner

- Don't make studying a solo habit, and don't always do it alone! Connect with someone learning English and help motivate each other!
- Communicating your goals out loud will help make them a reality.
- Join any community! BEC, any English club, ESuRe

5 Tips to Make English Studying a Habit

2. Make realistic goals and studying schedules

- It's important to evaluate your current level of English and your everyday life and current routine and find out what you want to achieve and where you really have time to study.
- Your level and abilities will differ from someone else. Only you can Determine what is realistic to accomplish.
- Set yourself up for success and make a realistic schedule with goals you know you can achieve.
- Make an English SMART Goal!
 - Specific,
 - Measurable,
 - Attainable,
 - Realistic/ Relevant,
 - Time-Based/ Bound

5 Tips to Make English Studying a Habit

3. Find tasks and activities you enjoy doing

- We are so lucky to live in an age where learning opportunities are endless (there are a lot of opportunities). Long gone are the days when you had to enroll in a school and learn from textbooks. Luckily you can learn English without stepping foot into a classroom! And, if you don't enjoy textbooks or boring lessons, the great news is that you still have options to learn!
- Some recommendations to improve your English:
 - ✓ Podcasts, like English Across the Pond,
 - ✓ movies and TV shows (Netflix, Amazon Prime), and music,
 - ✓ audio books (Try Audible and Get Two Free Audiobooks),
 - ✓ English written blogs (about general topics), and novels/books

5 Tips to Make English Studying a Habit

4. Include English in your current routines and habits

- Think about the activities and tasks you are already doing every day, like brushing your teeth, showering, driving to work or commuting to school, having coffee at the breakfast table, etc. How can you include English in these situations? If you figure this out, then you will automatically make English part of your routine, and it won't be that challenging because the habit has already been established.
- English listening practice is the easiest to put into your routine, because you can play music, podcasts, audiobooks, etc.. while brushing your teeth, showering, driving, cleaning, cooking, and so much more.

5 Tips to Make English Studying a Habit

5. Make an investment in yourself and your English skills!

- If you put some money into your goals, this money will be the motivation to learn and follow through with your plan. Although free studying is helpful, it's easy to procrastinate your homework, and put off activities until later because there's nothing making you want to do it now.
- Recommended Resources for English Success: BEC, any English course, ESuRe Classes to Improve your conversational skills and so much more!
